PLISTA HARRIS, of Coronity. HAAO P. HAZARD, of Newport. AMOS D. BMITH, of Providence, CWARLES ALLEN, of Nach Kingstows,

IF During the last two months, the New York Herald has left no stone unturned to injure this place; its assettions have been utterly destitute of truth, and it has pursued a course which is a characteristic element of that paper .--The plain truth of the matter is that Bennett has a grodge, of long standing, and of a personal and private nature, against the proprietors of two of our principal hotels,-and all without any real foundation, and because, in both cases, he was in the wrong. On this account he has exerted his utmost energies to injure the place, and its summer business. But it affords us much pleasure to be able to asy that he has been entirely unsuccessful, for no kind of reliance has been placed upon his representations. No ope, in any matter, of great or small importance, ever thinks of attaching any credit to what is stated in the New York Herald,-and none are ever influenced, in the slightest degree, by its assertions.

Newport was never more prosperous, in the summer business, than at the present time: there was never a period thus carly in the season, when the town was so full of visitors, and those, too, of the most desirable kind. A large number of the most remectable visitors now here, from various parts of the country, who have visited Newport, for many years past, are ready to attest to this fact, it there was any occasion for it,but there is none; the appearance of things here plainly substantiates all that we have said, and the daily arrivals than on any previous year. It should be remembered that we only insert the arrivals at the three principal hotels; there are other hotels and very many private boarding houses, and full one half of the visitors at Newport are, at their own cottages, -- so that only a portion of the arrivals come before the publie in print. At Secutors and most other fashionable summer resorts, nearly all the arrivals are at the hotels, -- and hence the difference in the published

IF The late attack of the New York Times on that most extraordinary we man, Lola Montez, has called forth s really masterly letter from her pen; a letter, all thinge considered, which but few men at strong minds could produce. We know poshing, In fact, of the charnoter of Lola Montax; we have read the thousand and one stories in regard to her which have been published in the newspapers for several years past,—but upon these we place little or no reliance from the fact that neuropopers are ton ready to denounce and decry a woman who departs from the ordinary routine of feminine regulations. We are not approving of Lola Montex' conduct, or cologizing her character, because we now nothing of either, except what we have heard from others. But she is a lone woman in the world—she is eccentric and the has talent, wonderful talent,and we would be the last one to do aught to push her down, or to andeavor to deanything which might bejure her. A man may do almost anything, and still he is recleved in society, to a certain extent; and if it is said that he has reformed, he is restored and admitted to most any position, where he may have previously moved. But it is far different with a woman; let her make ; false step, or let her, even il she is per feetly virtuous in fact, manifest extraor dinary independence of character, she is at once liable to suspicion, and when there is a doubt of her virtue, she fall in the estimation of the great muss, and she never recovers her position.

As we have before stated, we know nothing of the merits of Lola Montes and hence we would not denounce her, especially in a wanton manner. A mon can take cure of himself but a woman has not the same means of defence, hence the same terms of denunciation should not be employed. Lola Monte: injurer no one, and therefore she should not be injured, especially by uncalled for attacks by the public press.

Gen, Joses, deceased, is to be sur cecded by Lieut. Col., Sumuel Cooper,

AT At no period since Newport has been a fashionable watering place, have there been such a large number of beautiful private carriages here as this year; allhough there were more last season than usual, we feel quite safe in saying that there are double the number this year. Some of them are very beautijul, while all are neat and scomfortable. Our summer visitors are building expensive houses here every year, and we are glad of this, for it tends to make projectly generally more valuable, and to attract larger numbers of visitors here each year.

IF Among the arrivals at the Ocean House, we notice Senator Bradbury and lamily, of Maine.

ny- We notice that two daughters of Gen. Scott, and his son-in-law and Aid, Col Scott, are in town, passing

The steamer Massachusetts will make an excusion to this place from New Bedford, to-day; she leaves there at 1 o'clock, and will remain until the next morning. The New Bedford Brass Band and Smith's Quadrille Band will accompany the party.

O. Sackett, the Yankee Card writer and a most accomplished writer, will make a prefessional visit to this town in a few days.

We call the attention of our readers to the brilliant and attractive Programme of the Germanians, in another column, for the Concert to-morrow evening; again we say let the Hall be crowded by the friends of these distinguished artists.

MEYER'S UNIVERSUM. No. 2.-The second number of this truly superb serial contains steel plates of the Royal Exchange, London ; the city of Constantine, in Africa ; the Palace and Gardens of St. Cloud, and New York Buy, They as fallhful to reality as they are fine in execution. The work, when completed, will be an ornament of value: to every library or centre table.

We understand that Mesors, Ticknor, Reed & Fields, of Boston, have purchased the advence sheets of " Lyons, Living and Dead ; or Personal Recollections of the great and gifted," by of the well known Fell author to which work they will form a second For some months past Mr. Dix has resided in this town, where he is un engaged in his literary labors. We predict for this work an extensive sale in America.

Stung by a Figu. - Some two months ago, a young man named Garver, residing near this place, while fishing, was stong by a cat-fish, which has proved quite serious and painful, and threatens to result fatally. His hand and arm becamelvery much swollen, and continued lo grow worse until a few. days ago it was found necessary to amputate one of the fingers in order to arrest mortification in the arm .- Boonsboro Old Fellow.

BRAUTIFUL EXTRACT .- There has been such an universal burst of admiration for the peerless manner in which Mr. Burlingame alluded to Calhoun, Clay and Webster, in his Oration, de-Clay and Webster, in his Oration, de-livered in this city on Monday last, that we give the following extracts: and we can safely say, that for touching beauty and aloquence, they are not surpassed in the English language—and when it is remembered that his whole address was extemporaneous, the mind will wonder how such beautiful passages could gush from the deep fount of the heart, at will—New London Star.

"Mr. Websteris the only surviver of that illustrious trio of statesment, that illustrious trio of statesmen,

"Who shook the nations through their lips, and blat'd, Till vanquished Senates trenshed as they praised."

"One elseps, this beautiful day, in the aweet shade of the magnolia's blossoms—his great heart is still, and quenched is the light of his glorious eye lover—another and fit commaning of the great is the light of his glorious eye lorever— another and fit companious of the great South Carolinian fell but yesterday, on the field of his lame, and now, cold and dead, is horre on his bier through a weeping nation, back to the generous soil of old Kentucky, there to sleep the sleep that knows no waking. The orator, the chivalric gentleman, and noble friend, is beyond the reach of mailice or of praise—never again shall herouse us with his bugle blasts, or melt us into tenderness by the fouching melt us into tenderness by the touching 45 Emptions that start When memory plays an old tune upon the heart, I could not better illustrate the story of our institutions than by reference to these great men, their noblest offspring." BY TELEGRAPH, LOUISVILLE, July 19. John McKinley, Judge of the Supreme Court of the United Btates, died in this city, to-day, of apoplexy.

"Have You not mistaken the pew, sir?" blandly said a Bunday Chesterfield to a stranger, an he entered it. "I beg pardon," replied the intruder, " I fear I have H took it for a Christian's."

Consistency - The N. H. Patriot after claiming that the Locos are not responsible for the religious test, on the ground that they had not a two-third majority, endeavors to fasten the blame upon the Whige at a time when their vote and that of the aboliticolets together according to its own statement was not 4,000 larger than of the Locos.

The main question about this matter never has been answered by the Loco Press, and never will be. The Demoerate have for twenty years had a majurity over each of the other partica-The Whig towns and counties voted against the test. If the Loco towns and countles had done the same, there would have been no difficulty in securing a two-third majority against it .--But they gave a majority in favor of it, and it still stands.
